TESTING FOR COVID-19

COVID-19 testing is not needed for most patients with mild symtoms (such as cough).

The State of Arizona may approve testing if you are sick enough to be in the hospital.

As testing becomes more readily available over the coming weeks, some patients with other risk factors may also be tested.

People who are well enough to stay home do not always need to be tested for COVID-19. The home care plan is the same for people with cough and fever whether or not they are tested for COVID-19.

We are working closely with healthcare partners to stay up to date as recommendations change.
